Contemptible Tactics.

The Democratic committee cannot afford to "put up" for expensive marching club uniforms in this campaign, and they are not foolhardy enough to join in joining marching clubs against their will. This is left to the other side. But it does not prevent Democrats from turning out by the hundreds.—Register.

In the above paragraph is a statement which, if the Register is prepared to prove it, should be proven. No honorable newspaper will reflect upon honorable business men and employers of labor in this community in that way unless it is prepared to make its charges good. If this is to be a campaign of education and argument, let it be so; if it is to be one in which class is to be arrayed against class and falsehood is to take the place of a fair and honest discussion of the issues, then the honor and the decency of the American people will assert themselves, and forever bury the party that for the sake of votes will appeal to prejudice and resort to the most dangerous and contemptible tricks known to politics.

Where in this community can the Register point out that the workmen have been "bulldozed" into joining Republican clubs "against their will"? The charge is so serious as to call for specifications. Let the Register give them or stand branded as guilty of resorting to the most infamous kind of demagogic imagination. The Register's paragraph is an insult, not alone to the employers of labor in this city, but to the honest workmen who are taking an active part in the campaign for honest money and a chance to earn it, for it is an impeachment of their manhood. Mere assertions prove nothing. The Register has made the charge and it must prove it or lose the respect of all honorable men among its supporters.

And we repeat our inquiry of yesterday. Why is it that the Democratic workmen of Wheeling cannot make the gorgeous displays of former campaigns. What has happened since 1892, when the Democratic marching clubs were able to boast of full ranks and attractive uniforms? Are they not having the "four more years of Grover?"

that the Register helped hoodwink them into believing would better their condition? Haven't they the Democratic tariff policy that up to the time the Populists captured the Democratic organization was held out as the panacea for the woes of the people?

How many votes for the Populists ticket does the Register hope to gain by its contemptible effort to array class against class in this community? Does it think the honest workmen of Wheeling, Democrats and Republicans, are ignorant fools enough to pay attention to such despicable tactics?

The Register tried the same method of making votes for its party in 1894. Everyone knows the result. The laborers of Ohio county rose up and delivered a rebuke that was heard throughout the state, and now when their manhood is attacked in a similar manner they will again be heard from.

They know what is the matter with them. The experience of the past three years has taught them. They were promised bread in 1892 and were given a stone, and they are well enough acquainted with the party that deceived them. They have no intention of listening to the plea of the men who fooled them. They are no more prepared to accept the free silver cure this year than they are to swallow another dose of free trade. In the meantime they will continue to march in public parades, dressed as they see fit, and help in the work of restoring the confidence in the business world which will insure them steadier work at decent wages, paid in good round 100 cent dollars, which will buy 100 cents worth of the necessities of life.

Was Bismarck Really Wrote.

Mr. Bryan and the Populists who are quoting the letter received by Governor Culberson, of Texas, from Prince Bismarck, will not hereafter quote it with so much gusto. It now appears that the letters was badly garbled or distorted in the translation, and when correctly translated a somewhat different meaning from that given out is placed on it.

The New York World sent to Texas and procured a correct translation of the original letter, which is on file in Governor Culberson's office, the translation being made by Judge Julius Schutze, editor of the Texas Vorwaerts. It will be remembered that the Populists press and orators have laid great stress upon these two phrases in the translation which was given to the press: "I hold that this is the very hour that would be available to bring about an agreement in favor of bimetalism," &c., "and if the people of the United States should find it compatible with their interests to take INDEPENDENT ACTION in the direction of bimetalism, I cannot but believe that such action would exert a most salutary influence upon the consummation of inter-national agreement."

In the original German the letter contains no such phrases. The World publishes the letter in German, just as Prince Bismarck wrote it, and the translation follows, so that every German can see how it has been distorted.

Following is the translation by Judge Schutze:

FRIEDRICHSMUE, Aug. 24, 1896.
Honored Sir:—Your esteemed favor has been received. I have always had a predilection for bimetalism, but while I was in office would not consider myself infallible in opposition to experts. I believe to this day that it would be commendable to obtain by endeavors of those nations chiefly engaged in the world's commerce an agreement in the direction of bimetalism.

The United States are, in political economy, less hampered by their government than any one of the European states, and if North America should find it compatible with its interests to take a substantial step in the direction of bimetalism, I believe that such step would exert a beneficial influence upon the establishment of international agreement, and the union of the European states. Assuring you of my highest respect, I am your most obedient servant.

(Signed) V. BISMARCK.
Following is the translation as read by Governor Culberson, and which Mr. Bryan and the Democratic press are innocently quoting:

FRIEDRICHSMUE, Aug. 24, 1896.
Honored Sir:—Your esteemed favor has been duly received. I hold that this is the very hour that would be available to bring about between the nations chiefly engaged in the world's commerce a mutual agreement in favor of the establishment of bimetalism.

The United States are freer by far in their movements than any nation of Europe, and hence if the people of the United States should find it compatible with their interests to take independent action in the direction of bimetalism, I cannot but believe that such action would exert a most salutary influence upon the consummation of international agreement.

(Signed) V. BISMARCK.

The difference between the real letter and the bogus translation is at once apparent. In the original Bismarck does not advise that the United States can undertake the venture alone, but, on the contrary, suggests that all the North American countries, if compatible with their interests, might, if they should take a substantial (not an independent) step in the direction of bimetalism, exert an influence for an international agreement—the thing which the Republican platform pledges the Republican party to bring about if possible.

In no place does Prince Bismarck even suggest that he believes the United States can successfully take independent action. Mr. Bryan and his supporters contend that the United States can take independent action and should do so irrespective of the other commercial nations, and when they get hold of the distorted Bismarck letter they thought they had a clincher to use among the German-American voters who are not in favor of the policy of independent action, which means the adoption of an unsound monetary policy, a depreciated currency and repudiation.

Fortunately the vast majority of German-American citizens are intelligent people and are quick to note an error in translation of their own language into English. The World publication has placed the Bismarck letter in a new light, and exposed the attempt of Governor Culberson to deceive the voters of the United States as to the attitude of the greatest of German statesmen on the question of international bimetalism.

National Democratic Campaign Opened.

The opening of the Sound Money Democratic campaign last night was a decided success, and was an indication that the ranks of the patriotic men who have refused to endorse the betrayal of Democratic principles by the Chicago convention are composed of earnest, conscientious citizens who, in placing their country above so-called party regularity, are in the light to the finish.

peal to his fellow Democrats to stand by the country's credit, and to assist to vote down the mongrel aggregation of elements allied in the cause of repudiation, disorder and unsafe finance. No less eloquent was the splendid speech of Hon. Alfred Caldwell.

With the beginning of the National Democratic party's campaign in West Virginia a new and important factor has entered into the contest. The re-organized Democracy need not mind the sneers and the abuse of the repudiated Populists brethren. Men have withstood abuse before for conscience's sake and have lived to triumph over those who sought to tear down that which had been built up by the fathers.

Two Questions About Silver.

A friend at Vivian, West Virginia, sends the following inquiries: (1) "Please explain why it was that silver was demonetized in 1873 when it was above par; further (2) why is it if we have a gold standard that we can't get gold for a silver certificate or silver?"

(1) As a matter of fact silver was not demonetized in 1873. Demonetization is to take away the monetary quality of a metal. The act of 1873, stopping the free coinage of the silver dollar, did not do this, for since that time we have coined more than fifty times as many silver dollars as we had coined in the entire history of our government up to that time, and by limiting the coinage and making them legal tender since have kept them on a parity with gold.

A real demonetization of silver took place in 1853, when the fractional silver coin, which was then legal tender and comprised 97 per cent of all the silver in use, was restricted in legal tender and the doors of the mints were closed to its free coinage. The act of 1873 did not demonetize a single silver coin, but on the other hand, brought every dollar, which had been hoarded, because silver was at a premium, into use.

(2) The silver certificate is merely a treasury note certifying that there is on deposit in the United States treasury the number of silver dollars named on its face, which are payable on demand, and are therefore only redeemable in silver dollars.

The government by limited coinage and other safeguards maintains the parity of silver and gold and there is a law which declares it to be "the policy of the United States to continue the use of both gold and silver as standard money, and to coin both gold and silver into money of equal intrinsic and exchangeable value, such equality to be secured through international agreement, or by such safeguards of legislation as will insure the maintenance of the parity in value of these coins of the two metals, and the equal power of every dollar at all times in the markets and in the payment of debts." This declaration is a part of the Wilson bill of 1893 repealing the purchasing clause of the Sherman act—for which bill there was an almost universal demand. It was also demanded by the Democratic national platform of 1892.

Silver is exchangeable for gold, and our silver currency is kept current at par so long as we have behind it $500,000,000 of gold upon which our credit is based. All our silver, paper and gold circulate on a parity and are exchangeable with each other. They will remain so until our silver friends have their way and drive all the gold out of circulation by placing us on a depreciated silver basis. In the ordinary transactions of life no one cares to handle gold, but he does like to know that gold is backing the government's credit and giving the people confidence in the currency they do handle, whether it be paper or silver.

With Respect.

The fact that those who are opposing the plutocratic gold standard have to march in their everyday clothes, while the plutocrats furnish expensive club uniforms to their marchers, is somewhat significant.—Register.

Will the Register kindly name one single club in Wheeling which has been uniformed in the manner charged? If it can let it do the naming forthwith, or admit that it is indulging in a despicable bit of demagogic falsehood. It need not, of course, mention the check received from "Plutocrat" Faulkner by the club named in his honor. Mr. Faulkner did the graceful thing and there is no Republican mean enough to use the incident as campaign capital.

Resort to such childish methods of campaigning is not necessary this year with the Republicans. The Register's malicious attacks on the Republican marching clubs of Wheeling will react before three more days go by, when the display of uniformed Democratic clubs at the Bryan reception, with all the expensive accompaniments of brass bands and red fire, will be witnessed.

President Graham's Address.

In another part of this morning's Intelligencer is published in full the address delivered by President W. T. Graham, of the Aetna-Standard mill, to the employees of the mill, on their invitation last Saturday. It deserves a careful reading by every iron and steel worker. It is a discussion of the money question and the effect that free silver would have upon the industrial interests of this valley, and is a sufficient answer to the attack made upon it by a free silver writer in the Register yesterday. Its arguments are unanswerable.

The Intelligencer hopes to see Mr. Graham's address circulated freely, for it is a calm, business-like and convincing argument. Like all speeches of its kind, it does not deal in demagogic appeals to prejudice, but to the common sense reasoning of wage-workers.

CHILLY FOR BRYAN

In New England—Burning of Burns' Underwear Factory at Worcester.

BOSTON, Sept. 28.—Mr. Bryan and his escort had a taste of the hardships of campaigning this morning. Having left Bath, Maine, at midnight, where there was a scramble for sleepers, the party was aroused from much needed sleep at 5 o'clock, when Lynn, Mass., was reached. The candidate was billed for a speech at this place, and at Newburyport a portion of the Democratic city committee boarded the train to receive Mr. Bryan, and at the Lynn station, the other members were in waiting. The committee had provided carriages and the party was driven to the hotel Seymour, where breakfast was served and an informal reception held.

Shortly after 7 o'clock, Mr. Bryan and Mr. Sewall were escorted to Highland Square, where the stand had been erected. Here Mr. Bryan delivered a brief address. At 8:30 the party caught the train for Boston, arriving at the Boston and Maine station about twenty minutes later, where they were met by several hundred enthusiastic admirers. A quick trip across the city in carriages was necessary in order to make connections with the colonial express, which left the Providence depot at 9 o'clock.

There was much surprise in the party when news reached it this morning of the burning of the underwear factory of W. H. Burns & Co., on Salem square, Worcester. This was the building on which was displayed, last Friday, during Mr. Bryan's speech, directly in front of it, a large American flag bearing Major McKinley's portrait, and an equally large red flag with Mr. Bryan's picture. The police have been making efforts to secure the original of the dispatch sent from Worcester to Mr. Bryan, expressing gratification that the factory had been burned, but the telegraph company have thus far declined to surrender it. Mr. Bryan refused to discuss the matter this morning.

Mr. Bryan's departure from Boston was noticeable only for the enthusiasm evinced by the 1,500 people who saw him aboard the Colonial express at the Providence depot.
